

2012 RIVERSIDE SPEEDWAY ROOKIE OF THE YEAR APPLICATION

$20.00

In 2012, it remains the decision of the management team of Riverside Speedway, that the "Rookie of the Year" annual award will no longer be based upon points alone.

It is the decision of Riverside Speedway's management, that there will be several areas of input that will be taken into consideration for this award. There are several qualities of a good race car driver that will be considered. Those qualities considered will be, attitude on and off the track towards fellow competitors, ability to work with speedway management and its officials, and how a driver works with their own crew members.

A rookie driver needs to earn the respect from their division's veteran drivers. Veteran drivers will be asked to put input into the voting process for a rookie of the year candidate.

It is the discretion of the Riverside management team when a rookie driver will be allowed to start in their regular position according to their point factor.

The time period for starting in the back of the field will left up to the judgment of the management team. In most cases it will be two weeks for rookie Late Models and Outlaw/Sportsman drivers and all other divisions shall be three weeks.
